THREE LAKES TAKES ON AN AIR OF PROSPERITY

NEW NORTH MAN OBSERVES MANY GREAT IMPROVEMENTS THERE.

Many Declare that the Past Year Has Been the Best Ever Experienced—John Gagen, Eldest Son of Dan Gagen, Passes Away—A Pioneer Resident—Born at Eagle River—Several Good Openings.

The editor of The New North paid a visit to Three Lakes last Friday. It was the first visit to the little burg for a year. During the time intervening providence has dealt kindly with the citizens of that place. Evidences of prosperity were noticeable on every hand. We observed many substantial improvements in an architectural way. Several buildings have been erected during the past year—buildings that are a credit to the town. Those of the citizens there with whom the writer conversed expressed themselves as being content with the condition of the times and declared in unmistakable terms that the past year has been the most prosperous one ever experienced.

We had scarcely alighted from the train before we heard the sad news of the death of one of the pioneer residents of the county. The news spread rapidly and touched the hearts of the citizens when they heard of the death of John Gagen, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Gagen. The deceased was a single man, thirty-five years of age. He was well known in Rhinelander and had many friends who extended sympathy to the bereaved parents. The deceased was not only one of the pioneers of the county, but was born at Eagle River, when this region was populated mostly by the native denizens of the forest. In fact the whole country hereabouts was a wilderness. Mr. Gagen had suffered about three months with consumption and despite the medical assistance of eminent physicians and loving care of kind friends, nothing could stay his call from earthly ties and he breathed his last on Thursday evening last. The remains were consigned to their last resting place on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

The object of the visit of the representative of The New North was to get a correspondent and in our efforts we were successful. Beginning with our next issue, we will be enabled to publish the happenings of interest in Three Lakes. This will be a feature of the paper that we trust will interest many of the citizens of that town and be the means of adding their names to our list of permanent subscribers. The items will not deal with domestic affairs. They will not savor of personalities or an objectionable character. We shall endeavor to increase the amount of news in accordance with the volume of business done. It is our intention to broaden out in our facilities for news gathering till The New North can conscientiously fly its colors as the leading county paper in northern Wisconsin. This means an outlay of cash. To accomplish the plans outlined, we must have assistance in the way of paid up subscriptions, as the paper is our only stock in trade.

There seems to be a universal feeling among the citizens of Three Lakes in favor of the appointment of Mrs. Andy Anderson as postmistress to fill the vacancy caused by the death of her husband, who passed away a few weeks ago. The duty of the appointment will devolve on Congressman Stewart. We understand there was a time when several of the townspeople were eagerly looking for the appointment, but since the death of Mr. Anderson practically all of the opposition has given way and the several candidates are throwing their support to the unfortunate widow. As was stated recently in the columns of this paper, it is not the purpose of The New North to dictate, but it seems to us that in all justice and fairness the office should go to Mrs. Anderson. She has attended to the duties of the office for a long time and is familiar with every detail. From what we heard while at Three Lakes we are led to believe that there will be no contest for the place. It will go to the one who needs it most; a lady who is eminently qualified to discharge the duties most acceptably, as has been done by her of late.

In casting our optics about we observed an opening—a chance for the investment of some money in a financial institution—a bank. Three Lakes has no place of business of this nature. The citizens want it and should have it. The town has a population of about five hundred, each one of whom is obliged to haul away his wealth in his horse. It seems as if the business interests of the village are great enough to support a bank.

SMALL POX IS EPIDEMIC

Authorities Should Provide a Pest House to Guard Against Spread of Disease, Should it Break Out.

Small pox is epidemic throughout the northern part of Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota and in many places the people are becoming very much alarmed at the rapid spread of that awful disease. The fact that there are a number of cases in very close proximity to our city advances the idea that something should be done immediately by the authorities to protect our citizens against the spread of the disease, should it reach this city, as it is quite likely to do. The city council should take early steps to provide a pest house, a necessity which is lacking. Should a case break out, there is no place to remove the patient.

It is said there are about forty cases of the disease at Ashland, and even as near as Star Lake there are several down with it.

Without such provision as we suggest, should a case develop, it would be necessary for the council to condemn a piece of property for use as a pest house and the city would be obliged to pay whatever price the owner might demand. This is a bill of expense that may be avoided by taking the proper precaution. The health of our city demands that a pest house be provided. In our opinion we are not alone in the suggestion was advanced by several of our leading business men. The physicians of the city are a unit in advocating the matter which will be brought to the attention of the members of the council at their next meeting, which should be called especially for the purpose of providing a pest house.

Dr. F. L. Hinman, our health officer, is possibly more interested than any other man in the city. In speaking of the matter he stated his position clearly. He said: "We certainly ought to have a pest house. If we have a case of small pox I would simply have to take possession of some man's house. We can well afford the expense if we should, not happen to need it and if we should, we'll need it badly. I am in favor of a pest house."

Again, the citizens of the city should take the precaution of being vaccinated. The expense is a trivial matter in comparison with the benefits. Don't put it off till it is too everlasting late.

Considerable Railroad Building.

The Northwestern system is to do considerable railroad building in northern Wisconsin during the coming year. They have decided to build from Antigo to Merrill and rumor has it that the line will pass Merrill and head for some point west, probably Hayward. They will also build a line from Pelican Lake to Crandon. Both new lines will open up a splendid country. Antigo is joyful and hopeful over the announcement as it makes certain, probably, the retention of the division at that point.

H. E. Osborne, of the Herald, was summoned to Waverly, N. Y., the first of the week by telegram announcing the serious illness of his mother, Mrs. Sarah Osborne, who left here about two months ago to visit at her old home. She is lying critically ill suffering with pneumonia and little hopes are entertained for her recovery. Mrs. Osborne has many friends here who trust that she may be restored to health and friends.

LOCAL K. OF P'S HELP IN INSTITUTING LODGE

ORGANIZED AT WAUSAU WITH MEMBERSHIP OF SIXTY.

Twenty-six of the Rhinelander Members of the Order Were Prominent in Carrying on the Work—The Grand Chancellor Praises Our Boys—Treated to a Banquet—Proceedings Lasted Till Morning.

A delegation of twenty-five of the members of Flambeau Lodge No. 73, Knights of Pythias, of this city, visited Wausau last Friday for the purpose of assisting in the institution of a lodge of that order at the Marathon county metropolis. The ceremonies were somewhat lengthy, it being about 7 o'clock the following morning when the installation of the officers-elect was completed.

The new lodge is known as Marathon Lodge No. 115, Knights of Pythias. It starts out with a membership of sixty-four, there being forty-four initiates and twenty obituaries taken back into the fold and under the protecting wing of this benevolent and popular order.

Grand Chancellor U. S. Burns, of Sheboygan, was present to direct proceedings and take a prominent part in the work. He was most ably assisted by a team of twenty-five of the members of the local lodge, the members of which were most proficient in the discharge of their duties. They were the recipients of many words of praise from the grand chancellor.

Following is a list of the names of the team from the Rhinelander lodge assisting in the work:

C. C. C. F. Barnes.
Vice: C. C. A. A. Swartout.
Prudate: A. L. Dana.
M. of W. W. Earl Krueger.
M. A. M. H. Raymond.
M. of F. S. D. Nelson.
M. of R. and S. A. D. Sutton.
L. G. H. Jewett.
O. G. R. M. Douglas.
Knights: E. G. Spuler, Fred. Peikari, E. C. Sturdevant, E. A. Forbes, N. T. Baldwin, W. V. Reed, E. S. Cope, James Lawless, E. E. Parker, J. W. Miller, D. H. Walker, B. F. Gibson, C. J. Brown, Arthur Taylor, W. D. Harrigan and F. T. Coon.

The number of applicants was large. It was decided not to confer the full rank upon all, as it could not be done in a satisfactory manner. As it was, the cock had crowded several hours before the initiatory ceremonies drew to a close.

In speaking of the event, the Wausau Record says:

"The Irrepressible Crosby H. Grant, of Stevens Point, who for the past fifteen years has never missed attending the instituting of a K. of P. lodge in this state, was of course present, and was accompanied by Knights James C. Ellertson, Nels Reton and H. C. Walworth, all of Stevens Point. There were several more visitors present from New London and other points.

"Between 1 and 2 o'clock a recess was taken and the candidates and others repaired to the Imperial restaurant, where they proceeded to fortify themselves for the succeeding hours."

There were visitors present from Stevens Point and New London. Those in attendance from this city report a very pleasant time. The Knights were a sleepy looking lot as they stepped from the train upon their return home last Saturday. They slept fast that night, however, in an effort to recover their loss of sleep.

PAGE CONCERT COMPANY COMING.

First Attraction in Entertainment Course Next Thursday Evening.

A treat is in store for the music loving people of Rhinelander. An entertainment course is assured and the first attraction is the Eugene Page Concert company which appears at the Grand opera house next Thursday evening, December 13. They will furnish the audience with a program of rare excellence and their entertainment will be thoroughly enjoyed. The company comes highly recommended by the press. The Hensel (Benzonia, Mich.) Banner speaks of the company in the following complimentary terms:

"The Page concert Saturday evening was very fine. It met the expectation of all—drew a crowded house—gave the lecture course a good financial start—also from this excellent number, established the fact that the managing executive committee is to be depended upon for five more entertainments in the course, that each will draw a good house and the course will be a success. One fact was demonstrated—it pays to get reserved seats."

The entertainment course consists of four attractions, the names and dates being as follows: Eugene Page Concert company, December 13; Imperial Ladies' Quartette, January 18; Van Lien, February, 19; lecture by Rev. J. F. Nugent, March 14.

Course tickets are being disposed of at $1.00. For the concert next Thursday evening the following prices will be charged to those who have not procured season tickets: General admission, 50 cents; gallery 25 cents; children on front row of seats, 10 cents.

REYNOLDS PRINTING COMPANY.
RHEINLANDER, - WISCONSIN.

Men who, though slight, yet reach the chest standard, are preferred as recruits to those that are stout, the former being considered to possess the better frame.

It has just leaked out that Kaiser Wilhelm, of Germany, has just visited the Paris exposition, deeply disguised by a mustache turned down instead of fiercely upward, in his usual style. His visit was known only to the chief of police and three of his trusted assistants.

Moths fly against the candle flame because their eyes can bear only a small amount of light. When, therefore, they come within the light of the candle their sight is overpowered and their vision confused, and, as they can not distinguish objects, they pursue the light itself and fly against the flame.

In Australia a novel idea has been introduced for wedding out the "man who doesn't dance." Each lady has a slip of paper perforated in squares, one square for each dance on the programme. She gives one of these coupons to her partner at the end of each dance, and any man who can not produce a fair percentage of coupons is refused admission to the supper room.

Don't work with an electric light close to your hair unless you wish to become baldheaded before your time. This is the latest edict published by French scientists, and substantiated by physicians here in San Francisco. According to these learned savants the surest road to baldness lies in the path of the electric light. A mechanical Delilah is the electric light, shearing the Samsons who come under its glare.

Devotees of golf are fond of referring to it as "the ancient and royal game." It is probably more regal and certainly far more ancient than most of them have any idea of. At all events a pictured tablet was recently unearthed at Carthage, the old capital of the Hittites, wherein are depicted men and women engaged in a pastime, which, if not exactly golf as played at present, is something extraordinarily like it.

There is living in Paris to-day a man blind from his birth, who claims to be able to see through his nose. The severest tests have been applied, with the result that the most skeptical are convinced that the man's eyes are absolutely sightless and that he can distinguish objects by some means inexplicable on any other hypothesis than the one claimed. There are recorded instances of a similarly unaccountable gift of sight.

The feast of Bot-Yet, or "Mid-August Moon Worship," was celebrated recently by the Chinamen of Baltimore. The observance was commemorative of the supposed kindness of the moon toward the loyal soldiers during one of the battles in the Chinese rebellion, 500 years ago. According to Chinese history, fair Luna shed her beams on the hostile Emperor's legions at a critical period of this ancient war and largely contributed to their defeat.

The kangaroo is to be saved by the tendons in its tail. The demands of surgery for the strong chords that bind the muscles to the bones may prevent the rapid extermination of the animal and make profitable its cultivation under conditions more or less foreign to its native country. And it is more than likely that America will be the kangaroo's future home. For some time past surgeons have known of the use of tendons of the kangaroo tail for sutures and ligatures.

What it means to feel the hordes that flock into Paris at exhibition time words can only feebly convey. In 1859 the quantity of butchers' meat brought into Paris was 7,149 tons greater than the total of the previous year. Game and poultry showed an increase of nearly 3,000 tons, fish an increase of 699 tons and butter of 1,120 tons. The total of these commodities brought into the capital during 1859 was 194,000 tons of butchers' meat, 27,200 tons of game and poultry, and 25,400 tons of fish.

A new idea for utilizing the power of the wind in order to produce electricity has just been successfully tried. Windmills are too uncertain to permit of their being used for driving dynamos, so it is proposed that windmills be used to pump water into a high reservoir or tank, and this would drive a dynamo in an ordinary way by means of a turbine. Although the windmill might work fitfully, it would be sufficient to keep up a constant supply of water so that the production of electricity would be continuous.

The emperor of Germany drinks nothing but Mexican coffee, and a year's supply is sent regularly after each harvest from a plantation in the state of Michoacan. That intended for the use of the emperor's personal household is known as the Caracollo, carefully selected and sent to him in bags made of silk, while that for the court goes in the ordinary gunny sacks. Coffee is at its best when three or four years old, and as the supply from each harvest is received it is put aside to ripen in the emperor's garret.

THE SHORT SESSION.

Congress Will Consider Many Important Measures.

DISPOSITION TO RUSH ITS WORK.

Shipping Subsidy, Reduction of War Tax and Reorganization of the Army Leading Subjects for Legislation.

Washington, Dec. 2.—The senate will be called to order at 12 o'clock today, but beyond the probable reading of the president's message will transact no business, as the announcement of the death during the recess of Senators Davis and Gear when the message has been read will bring the sitting to a close. Senator Allison will make the announcement in the case of his late colleague, Senator Gear, and there is hope that Senator Nelson may arrive in time to perform similar service concerning Senator Davis. These announcements will be preceded by the ceremony of swearing in the new members, who this year are Messrs. Dilliver, who has been appointed to succeed Senator Gear, and Dillingham, who takes the place formerly occupied by Senator Ross, of Vermont, and the appointment of the usual committees to wait upon the president and house of representatives.

Shipping Subsidy Bill.

Senator Frye expects to get up the shipping subsidy bill on Tuesday, and if not on that day then on Wednesday, and in doing this to have the Spooner Philippine bill displaced. This will be the beginning of the important work of the session, and upon the success or failure of the scheme may depend much of the future course of proceedings for the entire session. In order to accomplish this result it will be necessary first to get the consent of the republican committee on order of business, and to this end a meeting of that committee will be held after the adjournment of the senate this afternoon. Senator Frye said Sunday that he already had conferred with a majority of the members of that committee and that he felt assured he would have no difficulty in securing their assent to the proposed change. Thus far there has been no consultation with democratic senators, but the friends of the shipping bill do not look for factions opposition to the taking up of the bill from that source. A motion to take up the measure is not debatable under the senate rules, and they are confident of a majority vote if a roll call should be demanded. It is probable that a friendly arrangement will be made with Senator Morgan, who has the Nicaraguan bill in charge, that bill being on the calendar as a special order for the 10th inst.

Hay-Panama Treaty.

There is some talk of an effort during the week to get up the Hay-Panama treaty in executive session, but there is as yet no definite programme to this end. A movement is on foot now to secure the assent of the committee on foreign relations to the abandonment of the Davis amendment to the treaty for the fortification of the proposed canal.

The usual custom of adjourning over from Thursday until the following Monday during the first weeks of the session probably will be departed from this session. That is the desire of the republican leaders now here, and they say there probably will be no such adjournment this week.

House.

Washington, Dec. 2.—The leaders of the house are preparing to press with great vigor the important business of the short session of congress, which convenes today. Already considerable preliminary committee work has been done on the important measures—the bill for the reduction of the war revenue taxes, the army reorganization bill, the river and harbor bill and several of the appropriation bills—and the legislative mill will start under a full head of steam.

Army Reorganization.

The army reorganization bill is considered particularly urgent owing to the possibility of its meeting strenuous opposition after it reaches the senate, and it is the intention of the leaders to get it out of the way at the earliest possible moment. It will be reported probably on Tuesday and will be taken up at once, unless after further consultation it is decided to let the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, which also will be ready on Tuesday, in ahead of it. The democrats will caucus on the army bill today and the indications now are that they will offer a substitute for the permanent reorganization measure a bill extending for two or three years the present law for a provisional army.

War Revenue Tax.

The bill to reduce the war revenue taxes has been practically completed by the republican members of the ways and means committee and it will be submitted to the full committee on Tuesday unless in the meantime a consensus of the republicans should be found advisable. Some of the republican members are not satisfied with the list of articles relieved of taxation by the bill, and if too much opposition becomes evident when the house convenes the leaders probably will call a conference or caucus for the purpose of adjusting and harmonizing differences.

Oleomargarine Bill.

On Thursday the Groat oleomargarine bill will come up as a special order under a rule made at the last session. It imposes a tax of ten cents per pound on oleomargarine, butterine or other manufactured butters colored in imitation of butter. It has strong backing from the dairy interests, and, while it will meet with warm opposition from the interests that are antagonizing its passage, when it reaches a vote its passage is regarded as a foregone conclusion. Two days, it is thought, will suffice for its consideration.

WON'T VISIT BERLIN.

Kruger's Trip to the German Capital Is Abandoned.

EMPEROR DECLINES TO RECEIVE HIM.

He Will Proceed at Once to Holland—German Paper Says His Visit Is Not Agreeable to That Country.

Berlin, Dec. 2.—Mr. Kruger has abandoned his proposed visit to Berlin owing to the receipt of an official intimation that Emperor William regrets that in consequence of previous arrangements he will be unable to receive him. The Boer statesman will therefore proceed direct from Cologne to Holland. He telegraphed to this effect Sunday afternoon.

Visit Not Agreeable.

The Cologne Gazette, in an inspired article, says: "Mr. Kruger's visit is not agreeable to Germany, his aim being to obtain intervention in South Africa. It would be a grave political mistake, it would be even a great crime, to allow him to entertain even a mark of hope that Germany will render him any practical support."

This declaration is accompanied with reproaches, Mr. Kruger being charged with "having encouraged a useless guerrilla warfare and having disregarded Germany's advice when he might have still followed it." The press generally strikes the same note. The emperor's intimation was conveyed to Mr. Kruger by the German envoy at Luxembourg, who arrived at Cologne Sunday.

Plagues England.

London, Dec. 2.—All the London morning papers comment with unbounded enthusiasm upon the abrupt snub administered by Emperor William to Mr. Kruger, which is all the more noticeable when contrasted with the Boer statesman's successful visit to France. The snub is regarded as further evidence of the good relations existing between Germany and Great Britain. The official explanation offered through the German press is that steps had not been taken to ascertain whether Mr. Kruger's visit would be agreeable. The Boer delegates admit that they have received a serious check, and Mr. Kruger is said to be extremely disheartened. There is a rumor that he has been requested to avoid Belgian territory.

Kruger Leaves Paris.

Paris, Dec. 2.—Mr. Kruger left the Hotel Scribe at 1:10 p.m. Saturday in a closed carriage, surrounded by a squadron of mounted municipal guards. The crowd which gathered about the hotel was decidedly small, compared with the size of those which greeted Mr. Kruger a week ago. The Boer leader was cheered as he drove away, swinging his hat from the landau window in reply.

The Special Train with Mr. Kruger.

on board started for Cologne at 1:40 p.m.

Arrival at Cologne.

Cologne, Dec. 2.—Mr. Kruger arrived here at 11:30 o'clock p.m. Saturday. A great crowd assembled and caused a dangerous crush. No official reception had been arranged and Mr. Kruger drove to the Cathedral hotel, the crowd cheering as he left the station and as he drove along the route. The absence of an official welcome is said to have been due to neglect to secure an understanding with the imperial court, which is necessary in the case of visits of the heads of states. Hence it is reported that Mr. Kruger will probably not go to Berlin at present.

Mr. Kruger's journey through northern France was attended by scenes similar to those witnessed at Marseilles and Paris. At nearly every station jostled crowds had gathered, which waved hats and handkerchiefs and cheered the train as it whirled along.

Thousands of people waited Sunday in the vicinity of the Cathedral hotel to catch a glimpse of Mr. Kruger, who, when replying to the deputation of Bonn students in the afternoon, described the educational progress of the Transvaal, thanked the students for their kind welcome, and shook hands with each. Afterward he appeared upon the balcony, where he was loudly cheered from below. Having rested for half an hour, he went into the vestibule of the hotel, which was crowded with visitors. Here, replying to a deputation from the Pan-German league, wishing him success, he referred to the close relationship between the Boers and the Germans. It is expected that Mr. Kruger will remain here until Wednesday.

Brilliant Ceremonies.

Catholic Dignitaries to Officiate at Midnight Service to Consecrate New Century to God.

Washington, Dec. 2.—Archbishop Martinelli, the apostolic delegate, will participate at services to be held at St. Patrick's church in this city at midnight on December 31 to consecrate the new century to God. A year ago the pope gave a special permission, with a view to wide exercise of the privilege, to sing a solemn mass at midnight of December 31 of last year to consecrate the closing year of the century and to repeat it on December 31 next at the same hour for consecrating the entire new century. The ceremony, like that of a year ago, is expected to be an unusually brilliant one, and most of the bishops throughout the country probably will hold similar solemn services.

Federation of Labor.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 2.—The twentieth annual conference of the American Federation of Labor, which convenes in this city on Thursday, December 26, will bring together some of the leading labor men of the world. Delegates from England have already arrived. Every state in the union which has organized labor will send delegates, and it is expected that between 250 and 300 members will be in attendance. The convention will be in session nine days, and on the final day there will be an election of officers. It is thought Mr. Gompers will be reelected president.

Heavy Loss by Fire.

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 2.—The entire plant of the Chattahoochee Brick company near this city was destroyed by fire Sunday except the stockade where several hundred convicts are kept. The loss is $600,000; partly covered by insurance.

Returns to the Fold.

Washington, Dec. 2.—Senator Stewart, of Nevada, has had his name placed on the republican caucus list. He has been a silver party man for the last eight years.

GERMANY IN LINE.

Embassador White at Berlin Cables the Government's Acceptance of the American Plan.

Washington, Dec. 2.—The victory of American diplomacy in China appears to be complete. Secretary Hay on Saturday received a cable dispatch from Ambassador White at Berlin stating that the German government had decided to recede from its demands upon China and to accede to the suggestions made by the United States. Baron Fava, the Italian ambassador, later called at the state department and stated that his government had decided to withdraw its demands and to accept the modifications presented by the United States.

Inasmuch as it is known here that Great Britain was withholding a similar expression only for the purpose of permitting Germany to speak first, and as Russia, France and Japan had already signified their acceptance of the American programme, the agreement appears to be complete, and another great triumph has been scored by Secretary Hay.

One feature of the demands to which Germany stood committed was that they should be final and in the nature of an ultimatum. The United States government was opposed to this because in the event of China's refusal to comply on the grounds that the demands were excessive the powers would be committed to an enforcement of the demands. This government therefore sought to have the ultimatum excluded or modified, and several days ago received encouraging assurances from Great Britain, Russia and France.

Washington, Dec. 2.—Administration officials continue sanguine that the ministers of the powers at Peking will soon reach a common ground of agreement in the demands to be made upon the Chinese imperial government in satisfaction for the Boxer outrages. The state department is in communication with the ministers and ambassadors of the United States to the European courts, and advises which have come from them from time to time lead the officials here to hope that the powers will be brought to the position maintained by the United States in dealing with the Chinese, viz.: that there should not be demands made upon the imperial government which it is not able to fulfill. Our government has persistently held to this view in the progress of the negotiations between the ministers at Peking, and it the principle of this contention can be maintained in the combined note to be handed to the Chinese plenipotentiaries a decided advantage will be had at the start. The attitude of our government on this subject has been made clear to Mr. Conger. The meeting between him and the German and French ministers Saturday at Peking presumably was in compliance with the minister's latest instruction from Washington. Nothing has been heard from Mr. Conger by the state department for several days.

GEN. DE WET IN DANGER.

Gen. Knox Pressing the Boer Commander—May Effect His Capture.

London, Dec. 2.—The Evening Standard reports that a great fight is in progress between Gen. Knox and Gen. De Wet, near Rouxville, in the southeastern extremity of the Orange River colony, and the capture of Gen. De Wet is considered imminent. The first dispatch from Gen. Kitchener, in his capacity of commander-in-chief of the British forces in South Africa, is dated Bloemfontein, November 29, and confirms the reports of fighting between Gen. Picher and Gen. De Wet, as cabled November 29, and adds the latest reports—that Gen. Knox is in touch with Gen. De Wet's force near Tafelberg, 12 miles north of Bethulie (Orange River colony), that the Boers attacked Bushof November 29, and were repulsed without British loss.

Gen. Kitchener also reports that November 28-29 Gen. Paget was fighting with the Viljoen and Erasmus commands, and that he drove the Boers to a position in the vicinity of Hettfontein.

President Diaz Sworn In.

City of Mexico, Dec. 2.—President Diaz Saturday morning took the oath as president of the republic for the next four years. When he entered the chamber of deputies all rose and he took his stand in front of the speaker of the house, who asked him if he promised to observe and comply with the precepts of the constitution. The president answered in the affirmative and the speaker said: "If you shall do so may the nation reward you, and if you do not may it call you to account."

Hebel Band Surrenders.

Manila, Dec. 2.—Twelve hundred bolomen entered Vigan, island of Luzon, Friday afternoon and surrendered to Capt. Green, of the Thirty-third infantry. This is the largest number of men who have yet surrendered in Luzon at one time. Gen. Tinio has been keeping a swarm of bolomen along the mountains and they have impoverished the food supply.

To Reconstruct Galveston.

Fort Worth, Tex., Dec. 2.—A conference to devise ways and means for rehabilitating Galveston and her port, destroyed by the hurricane September 8, convened here. There are between 2,000 and 4,000 delegates and visitors present. Resolutions will be passed calling for national and state aid to rebuild the harbor and to maintain a deep-water port.

Vote of Texas.

Austin, Tex., Dec. 2.—Texas' vote for presidential electors as cast November 6 at the general election resulted: Bryan, 267,422; McKinley, 121,172; Donnelly, 21,160; scattering, 62,000. Bryan's plurality is 146,253. The vote was 310,000 short of that cast four years ago.

HORROR IN MEXICO.

Worst Railway Disaster in the Country's History.

TWO TRAINS COLLIDE IN A VALLEY.

Fully a Score of Persons Lose Their Lives, and About Sixty Others Are Injured—Details Are Very Meager.

San Antonio, Tex., Dec. 2.—A terrible collision, in which a score of persons were killed and about 60 hurt, occurred on Thursday afternoon between Tamamacha and Simon, 50 miles south of Juimico. The first news of the disaster reached here Sunday. Edward Hiche, a citizen of San Antonio, was at the scene 20 minutes after the engines crashed together. The place where the wreck occurred is in a valley at the foot of two immense hills. At the time both trains were running 20 miles an hour. One of the trains had on board a construction crew numbering 150 men. The other was a freight train of 25 empty cars. Three engines and about 40 cars were piled up 20 feet high. Two Americans, train employees, were forced to flee to avoid being lynched. The names of the killed and injured are not obtainable. This is said to be the most serious wreck that has ever occurred in Mexico.

SENATOR DAVIS AT REST.

Remains of the Beloved Statesman Are Placed in a Receiving Vault at St. Paul.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 2.—Under a gloomy and mournful sky, in the presence of an immense crowd of people, the body of the late Cushman Kellogg Davis was Saturday consigned to the earth, closing the earthly career of one who has been foremost in the councils of the nation for many years, a leader among statesmen. Because of the aged parents of the deceased it was decided to have the funeral services at the family residence on Farrington avenue, and the hundreds who gathered from all parts of the country to pay their last tribute of respect to the dead, and to show their heartfelt sympathy with the bereaved family and state, stood under the trees in the snow, in the porch and in the hall and the parlors of the house.

Magnificent masses of flowers filled the house with perfume, giving testimony to the sweetness of human sympathy. President and Mrs. McKinley had sent a beautiful wreath from the white house. An immense wreath of chrysanthemums overlaid with white roses and orchids testified to the love and esteem of the late senator's associates in the United States senate, a second tribute coming from the House of representatives.

The committees of the United States senate and house of representatives arrived in the city shortly before the funeral and were present at the house and cemetery, those present being: Senators Cullum, Nelson, Carter, Spooner, Hansbrough, Pettigrew and McBride, in charge of Col. D. M. Russell, sergeant at arms of the senate, and Representatives J. J. Jenkins, T. M. Crary, Joel Heatwole, F. C. Stevens, Loren Fletcher, Page Morris and F. M. Eddy, escorted by Assistant Sergeant at Arms Kinney, of the house.

All state and city offices were closed for the day and business generally was suspended throughout the city during the hours of the funeral, while all flags, official and private, were hung at half-mast as a mark of respect to the deceased.

The exercises at the home at 11 o'clock were of the simplest character. Rev. C. D. Andrews, of Christ church, read the impressive service of the Protestant Episcopal church, assisted by Rev. Theodore W. Sedgwick, of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, who read the lesson. Music was furnished by a quartette, consisting of Miss Florence Marion Pace, Mrs. Jane Huntington Yale, Mr. Harry E. George and Mr. H. E. Phillips, who sang "Lead, Kindly Light," "Peace, Perfect Peace" and "For All Thy Saints."

The exercises were brief and the funeral procession then formed and took its way along the snowy streets to the Oakland cemetery, where Rev. Dr. Andrews read the committal service and the body was lowered into the vault in the beautiful little chapel. The pallbearers were all old friends of the deceased statesman, as follows:

James J. Hill, Judge Walter H. Sargent, Judge Charles E. Flandrau, ex-Gov. John S. Pillsbury, ex-United States Senator W. D. Washburn, Hon. Samuel R. Thayer, E. W. Peet and Robert G. Evans.

WEATHER IS TOO WARM.

Operations in Northern Lumber Camps Are at a Complete Standstill.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 2.—Lumbering operations in Minnesota are practically at a standstill, on account of the warm, unseasonable weather, and unless there is a change at once lumbermen will be heavy losers this winter. None of the swamps are frozen over as yet, and logging operations cannot be conducted with safety. The woods are full of men, ready to go to work. They are being paid the highest wages that have prevailed for several years. Should snow come before the ground freezes the situation will become more complicated than ever.

Death of a Jurist.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 2.—Judge O. B. Wyman, of the Sixth judicial district of Wisconsin, died of cancer Sunday morning at Buffalo, N. Y., where he had been under treatment for some time.

A misplaced comma sometimes makes no end of trouble. by Wm. Schuler. Musicians were taken along and dancing was indulged in till the midnight hour, when a spread was prepared to appease the appetites of the jolly young folks. Then there was more dancing, which was continued till the hour of two, when the merry makers started on their homeward journey. A most enjoyable evening is the verdict of each and everyone in attendance.
"O'Hooligan's Wedding" was the bill at the Grand opera house last Thursday (Thanksgiving) evening. It was the most abominable farce ever sprung upon an unsuspecting public and to "scot out" was a painful task. Those making up the cast were evidently a lot of amateurs who have the mistaken idea that they are actors and actresses. That they have missed their calling needs no argument with those who were present. The play was utterly void of a plot. This together with the amateurish pranks in an effort to force a laugh gave the members of the audience a very tired feeling. The specialties were in keeping with the play, and the jokes—well, one redeeming thing was that we had not heard them lately. Following such an attraction as visited us the week before, it failed to fill "a long felt want."
The dance given by the members of Laramie Tent No. 17, K. O. T. M. at the Armory hall Thanksgiving night was a great social and financial success, netting the members in the neighborhood of one hundred dollars. It was one of the most largely attended dances given in the city since the opening of the armory and the Macabees have reason to congratulate themselves upon the complete success of the affair. From 9 o'clock till the small hours of the morning the hall was the scene of animated enjoyment. Old and young mingled together and enjoyed themselves in the pleasure of the evening to the music of Squier's full orchestra. An elaborate supper was served by the Lady Macabees. The spread was prepared by Mrs. Gus Horn, whose reputation is a guarantee of excellence. Nothing was lacking and there was enough and to spare, despite the fact that three hundred were served.

Chas. Eagan, the young man who had a piece bitten out of his upper lip some time ago, had an operation performed at the Rhinelander hospital by Drs. Daniels & Packard. The job was a neat one, as only a scar shows now, and when healed it will hardly be perceptible.—Eagle River News.
The citizen who writes The New North asking why prize fights are allowed in Rhinelander, and why the paper doesn't see that they are suppressed is informed that the state law against prize fighting is on the statute book for rich and poor alike. Dives and Lazarus are equally treated when an application for enforcement of the law is made. If the county officials fail to do their duty or if the city officials are delinquent in the eyes of our correspondent, he knows his remedy and it seems just a little like hypocrisy for him to ask someone else to pull chestnuts from the fire for him. Prize fights, like some other acts, are prohibited by classic statutes, the enforcement of which depends upon the local sentiment. The New North does not advocate nor defend lawlessness in any form, but it hardly presumes to dictate to this community how it shall look upon an enforcement or construction of a law. Come out in the open, Mr. Reformer. Its the best way. All the papers and all the people will be with you if you are right, but reform under an assumed name is neither practicable nor profitable.

A Chestnutting Ghost

By Margaret Harringer.

"I CALL it downright mean, boys." "So do I, so do I, but what's that to him. He can't care a snap what we think of him. Well, we can show him there are more ways than one to make him care."

Tom Winslow was the leader among his friends, and what he said usually carried weight. The three boys were walking arm in arm from school, kicking the rustling leaves before them. They were greatly interested in the subject under discussion, and the lovely blue sky and twitter of birds on the mild October afternoon were lost to them.

"I'll tell you, boys. Let's go over to the house, out by the grape arbor, and talk this thing over. No one will catch a word, and I have a plan," suggested Tom.

The conference was held that afternoon and a plan laid which the boys were to carry out the next night. Tom was spokesman, and he talked earnestly between grapes.

"Now, this is my plan: We all have air guns, and there's plenty of good shot, and if we can't climb over his fence because of that great bulldog we can spoil his apples for him. We'll get Jim, Harry and Lou, and with ours there will be six guns. We can take some short ladders and climb up far enough to shoot, and we'll just pepper those apples so full of shot he won't have a tooth left if he tries to eat one. It's good moonlight, and we can see to aim pretty straight, and old bull can have a dose, too."

Mr. Brown, against whom this plot was laid, was a bachelor and a man of means, but was very close-fisted, and he showed his penurious spirit by never offering an apple to anyone, although the trees were loaded. The boys had even asked for a little fruit, but were refused, and soon after a high board fence with a barbed wire along the top was built around the orchard, and what was worse, a surly bulldog took up his abode at Mr. Brown's.

The trio seemed to think the plan a fine one, and all ate another bunch of grapes to seal the compact. Mrs. Winslow called supper, and Bert and Ernest were invited to stay. This was an unexpected pleasure and always a treat, as the Winslow home was full of good cheer and welcome, especially to the boys of Middleville.

After tea Grandpa Winslow said: "About nothing time, isn't it, boys? This warm weather won't last long. We'll have a frost one of these nights, and then hurrah for the hickories! That reminds me," the boys nudged one another and winked sly winks, and grandpa had a merry twinkle in his blue eyes.

"Next to my father's farm," resumed the old man, "when I was about your age, there lived a man by the name of Silas Holmes, and he was as 'mean as dirt,' we used to say. He was honest enough and a good worker, but as stingy as people were ever made. We boys grew to hate Silas, and not without reason, for he watched us day and night, for fear we might somehow coax a melon or an apple over the fence."

"He seemed to gloat over the idea that he alone raised and ate chestnuts. We boys got more angry each year, and finally things came to a crisis. One evening just at dusk I was going from the barn to the corner lot; I saw a figure in the melon patch; supposing it was father or brother Jim, I went on, but on second thought turned back just in time to see Silas climbing the fence with a big watermelon under his arm. I called out: 'Good evening, Mr. Holmes,' and he called back: 'Good evening, Tommy.'"

"I was dumfounded, but concluded to keep my counsel until Bill, my younger brother, and I got to bed. Then we talked the matter over and decided to wait until chestnuts were ripe and have our revenge in some way. October days soon came, with the dropping leaves and the yellow corn, and we were busy making jack-o'-lanterns to light the barn, for we were to have the annual corn-bucking bee at our place. All lands were set to work, that day; the old barn was swept and great bunches hung about the sides and from the rafters, and the pumpkin men never shone so brightly."

"We had laid our plans, Bill, Jack Hardy, who lived the other side of Silas, and myself. Of course Silas would be at the bucking, and as the women were all busy getting the supper his daughter, Sally, would be over early to help. We all liked Sally; she kept house for her father. Yes, she was a good girl, but she had to toe the mark. About eight o'clock the folks began to come, and by nine o'clock the barn was full. Supper was announced about 11 o'clock, and then came our chance."

"We stole away to the corner lot, where we had hidden our bags, and then crept back of the barn, through the melon patch, across Silas' garden to the other side of the house, over the fence and away across a field to where six big chestnuts stood, with the moonlight streaming over their heads. We decided that Jack should climb the tree and shake, while we filled our bags, and then one of us would take his place and the other help him fill his. We were getting on fully, when we were startled by a noise, not an unusual one, but a sound resembling a moan, then all was quiet.

"Give us another shake, Jack," I called; "then I'll come up." I had no sooner said it than a louder moan came from near by. We were frightened by this time, and Billy whispered: 'A ghost!'

"'Haw!' I said, 'ghosts don't make a noise, and there is no such thing, anyway,' and I bravely turned my head and looked about us. There it was, coming slowly towards us—white and specter-like—moving steadily from tree to tree, and you can imagine our hearts were thumping lively. 'Billy,' I said, getting close to him, 'hang on to your bag and we'll run.' I called to Jack, softly: 'Come on, Jack; drop quick, and you can have half my nuts.'"

"Before he could answer we heard some one sobbing, and soon a voice called out: 'Oh, boys, come quick! I'm so sorry, so sorry!'

"This was no ghost, but Sally, holding Jack's head in her lap and trying to revive him. He had fallen from the tree and broken his arm in his hurry to follow us, and, frightened nearly to death at being left alone with the ghost, had fainted. Sally then told her story. She had overheard us boys talking one day and knew of our plan to 'roon' the nuts, and thought she would have some fun out of it."

"We all went home feeling glad Jack's accident was no worse. Sally told a straight story to her people, saying we all went over to her house and Jack fell from a tree. The doctor was there and set his arm, and he was our hero, but no one knew of our ghost and the stolen nuts."

"Is that all?" asked Tom. "No," Grandpa Winslow said, "there's a sequel. At Christmas time we were all invited to Silas Holmes' to dinner, an unheard of thing, and we went with wonder and curiosity sticking out all over us. There was a big turkey and all sorts of good things, and in the center of the table a great dish of chestnuts, but they were not disturbed until evening, when we were all invited into the great kitchen, and Silas said while we roasted chestnuts he would tell us a tale. Then he told of how when he was a boy he fell in the creek and our father jumped in and helped him out, and another time when he grew up his house burned, and father and mother took him with his wife and Sally into their own home, and kept them until his house was rebuilt. Then when Mrs. Holmes died, leaving Sally a little girl, mother used to care for her and helped him get along until she was old enough to do the work herself, and so he rambled on."

"Father spoke up and said: 'There, there, Silas, that will do.' We wondered what was coming. Silas took the big dish of nuts and asked father to empty them on the hearth, and as the nuts rolled out a big, yellow envelope fell on top of the pile. Father picked it up and on it was written: 'A Merry Christmas, from Sally and Silas.'"

"Some years before this father had met with misfortune and was obliged to put a mortgage on our home. We boys knew the struggle he was having, and how mother was growing sad."

"About nothing time, isn't it, boys? This warm weather won't last long. We'll have a frost one of these nights, and then hurrah for the hickories! That reminds me," the boys nudged one another and winked sly winks, and grandpa had a merry twinkle in his blue eyes.

"Next to my father's farm," resumed the old man, "when I was about your age, there lived a man by the name of Silas Holmes, and he was as 'mean as dirt,' we used to say. # THE WOMAN HOME

THE FLOUR SHAMPOO.

A Common-Sense Substitute for the Horrible Measures of Soap, Soda and Water.

Isn't it a pity that women persist in ruining their hair by too much soap and water? says the London Mail. One of the most successful coiffures refuses to shampoo with it oftener than twice a year unless the hair is unusually oily. For other shampoos, given once a month, flour is used. The flour bath takes time, but is an effective shampoo. The powder is sifted into the hair in handfuls. Then the locks are divided into sections and brushed with a soft brush until every particle of white dust has been removed. Three or four applications of flour should be used at each shampoo. The color and consistency of the refuse proving that an amazing amount of dust is removed from the hair and scalp with each application. Twice a year the hair should be singed at the season when trees and hedges are cut back. After the soap and water shampoo only the purest castile soap should be used on the hair—brilliantine should be applied, and then there will be no trace of the stiffness and dryness usually so noticeable after this shampoo. The hair should be brushed every night with fine, flexible brushes, and the brushes should be cleaned twice or three times a week with flour or ammonia and water.

If the hair is turning gray or falling out massage is the best remedy, and by massage is not meant a rubbing of the scalp, which will ruin the finest head of hair, but a rotary movement of the scalp. To massage properly a finger is firmly pressed against the head, and the loose scalp under it pushed with a rotary motion. The fingers are moved from point to point, but are never permitted to slide over or rub the scalp.

These new methods are abundantly successful, but some women, in spite of expert advice, persist in clinging to old and dangerous ways, and then they wonder why the hair becomes thin or unlovely. Much harm is often done by the use of noxious kinds of soap—a misguided passion for cleanliness should not mean the destruction of beauty, but its preservation or enhancement.

BABY'S FINGER NAILS.

Mothers Should Take Care of Them If They Would Preserve the Beauty of Darling's Hands.

If the mother would preserve the beautiful contour and texture of her baby's soft little hands she cannot begin too early to care for them. As it is, however, few girls ever own a manicure set until they are young women. By that time, as often as not, the hand is beyond reclaim. Baby's finger nails should be trimmed neatly and carefully from very birth. During the first year this will be sufficient, but from that time on the mother will give them a five minutes' treatment at least once a week.

Any little detached cuticle about the base of the nails must be trimmed off from day to day with the tiniest and brightest manicure scissors obtainable, and the flesh about the nail pressed away from it with a soft, old piece of linen. In this way the tender, delicate flesh about the finger tips will become firm and hard, and the child will not suffer from that painful affliction known as hang nails. This, while commonly regarded as a most trivial thing, is, nevertheless, often the cause of much greater troubles, ending in nervous diseases and blood poisoning.

Where a baby's nails have been properly trimmed from birth the habit of nail biting is never contracted. Where it has already been formed, however, the mother can overcome it immediately by putting the child through a careful course of treatment. If the nails are tough enough to stand the operation they will be filed instead of cut with scissors, and at first they will be kept very short.

Something will be done every day, even if it is only to rub them gently. As biting the nails is a purely nervous affection, it is imperative, in aggravated cases, to put the child under a physician's care. If baby should suddenly display a voracious appetite for its finger nails, as is often the case even in infants, you can depend upon it that something is not right, and the physician will probably tell you that the food is not agreeing with it.

Children should be taught from babyhood how to hold the hands gracefully and naturally while in repose, and when using them to do so daintily.

Each time after the hands are washed a good plan is for the mother or nurse to not only press back the flesh about the base of the nail as already described, but to also press the tips of the fingers very firmly on either side of the nail, and the result in a few years will be the beautiful tapering finger tips so rare and so much coveted by everybody, especially every woman.

SUPPORTS HIS MOTHER.

Tiny Max Baby Poses Before the Camera and Is Paid Ten Dollars an Hour for the Work.

Just a tiny baby and yet the main support of his mother! Jersey City is the home of this unusual youngster, and the neighbors of tiny Max Fairchild watch him every day with a great deal of interest.

Little Max is as beautiful and as bright as it is possible for a child to be, and because nature has endowed him with such rare charms he is able to earn ten dollars an hour as a model for a New York photographer, whose special line of work is furnishing artistic baby pictures for advertisements. Baby Max's pictures are scattered all over the world by this time. Look at the boxes of powder in the druggists' show case and you are almost certain to see the dear little form and face of Baby Max.

When the tiny model was but a few months old his mother received a great shock. The father of little Max was a traveling salesman and was killed in a train wreck. The young mother and her infant son were left with but meager means of support. One day Mrs. Fairchild learned that a New York photographer wanted a pretty baby for a model and so she took her little son to his studio. The man with the camera was immediately pleased and said that the youngster was just the one he had been looking for. The baby was undressed as for his bath and sat on a table merrily cooling and expecting his splash in the water. The bright little face and perfect form was all that any artist could wish. After an hour's posing there was a set of the prettiest baby pictures that ever came from a studio. The advertisers who had given orders to the photographer were decidedly pleased, and this is how dimpled Max Fairchild became a model, earning enough to support himself and his widowed young mother.

WINDOW GARDENING.

Haphazard Care Does Not Pay with House Plants; They Need Constant Attention.

Nine-tenths of the windows used for window gardening are too crowded for the plants to look well or do well. Turn a new leaf right now by throwing away every poor or insignificant growth. Better to buy new stock in the spring than to turn your precious window space into a hospital ward for sickly plants.

Keep the foliage immaculately clean. Wash the leaves once or twice every week. A plant's lungs are its leaves. Showering the foliage washes the dust out of the pores, refreshes the plant and imparts vigor. Besides this, clean plants do not harbor insects, the greatest foe of the indoor garden, and the hardest to fight.

Loosen the crusty earth at the top of the pots. The roots need air, and in soft, pliable earth they get it by capillary transmission. A hard top crust seals the soil up as though in a jug. Neither air nor water finds free entrance through it. Plants in hard soil often suffer from lack of moisture at the roots, though water has been given every day.

Slide the shades up to the top of the upper sash; take down the curtains at the plant windows, and let God's invigorating sunshine in. Sunshine to a plant is what gold is to a Klondike miner.

In extremely cold weather stay the watering pot. Plants need little water during severe weather, and they chill or freeze twice as quickly after a fresh drenching. If watering becomes absolutely necessary have it the temperature of the room, and give only in the morning. Watering in the evening during a cold snap is to invite a visit from Jack Frost.

Put your plants. Turn them, train them into shape as they grow, pick off every dead leaf or faded flower. Haphazard care does not pay with house plants. —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Composite Bird on a Hat.

Frank M. Chapman, assistant curator of the Museum of Natural History, is an observing ornithologist and is continually making interesting discoveries in the befeathered monstrosities with which some women adorn their hats. Of the many which have claimed his attention in none perhaps is the plumage of different birds so confusingly intermingled as in a hat he observed recently in a cab near of New York city. He discovered there a whippoorwill's wings, a black cock's tail, a grackle's breast, a bunch of egret's, paradise bird's plumes and a hummingbird.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

WOES OF WORKERS.

The American man or woman is industrious. Our leisure class is small, our working world very large. Many of our leading citizens of great wealth are hard workers. Our laboring classes are found in herds and hordes in the "lives of industry." What is all this work for? In most cases it is for daily bread, in many for maintenance of others. Great numbers also work to acquire wealth. Some for great commercial prominence. Some to preserve intact a splendid inheritance. Necessity, generosity and ambition are the inspiration of all classes of industry, and the object of every one falls to the ground when ill-health attacks him.

Maintaining health is the most vital thing in the world for workers of every class, and the usefulness of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, as a strengthener of the constitutional and vital powers, is beyond all question. This great remedy enters into partnership with Nature and helps human beings do their work without giving up to premature decay. The strain of work is on the minds of some, on the bodies of others, but the nourishing of either, or both, is in the nerves and blood. Nervura acts directly on the fountains of health and its strengthening power is wonderful.

AN OVERFLOW OF LOCAL

J. W. Fenton was down from Hazelhurst Saturday and tarried a few hours.

B. F. Johnson spent Thanksgiving day with friends here. He attended the dance that night.

Miss Clara Ward enjoyed her Thanksgiving dinner at home. She is teaching in the Ames district.

Miss Beulah Chase, who is teaching school in the vicinity of Woodboro, ate Thanksgiving dinner at home.

Mrs. Geo. W. Bishop left Friday for Milwaukee, where she enjoyed a few days' visit with relatives and friends.

Miss Belle Crego returned Tuesday from Merrill, where she had been the guest of relatives and friends for a week.

Miss Sadie Hamilton, who is teaching near Monticello, spent Thanksgiving at home, remaining the balance of the week.

Miss Emily Greene, of Monticello, came up Thursday to visit friends and attend the Macabee Thanksgiving ball that night.

Mrs. F. F. Bloom, of Minneapolis, was the guest of relatives here last week, remaining till the day following Thanksgiving.

C. M. Fenton was a visitor at Wausau last week. He was accompanied back by his wife, who will remain here during the winter.

Ed. Brazell was in from Jeffers last Friday en route to Janesville, where he transacted business for a few days with the Jeffers people.

Carl Copelan was able to be out the latter part of last week after a few days' confinement at the hospital, suffering with lung trouble.

Miss Margaret Nash returned to Wausau last Monday to resume her studies at the business college, after enjoying a few days' visit with her many Rhinelander friends.

Leslie Beers, who is attending the State university, came up to enjoy his Thanksgiving dinner under his parental roof, remaining till Sunday night.

Harry Kemp, son of Rev. Kemp, former pastor of the Congregational church, was the guest of friends here last week, returning Sunday night to Madison, where he is attending the law department of the State university.

The New North and Weekly Wisconsin both one year $1.50. This is a most liberal offer and one that should add one hundred new names to our subscription list before the first of January.

It is the intention to add one hundred new names to The New North's subscription list between now and the first of January. To do this, a liberal offer is made. The Weekly Wisconsin and this paper both one year at the extremely low rate of $1.50.

Mrs. R. P. Guphill, who has been visiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. Clara Chase, for several days past, returned to her home at Genoa Junction last Friday night. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. N. T. Baldwin, who will spend a number of weeks with her.

E. S. Shepard goes to the western timber country, Washington and Oregon, early in January, for a long stay. He will look over timber for a syndicate, headed by C. A. Good-year, which probably will invest heavily in stumpage. Mr. Shepard will take one or two men with him.

The Sterens Lumber company, of Rhinelander, Wis., have closed down their mill for the season and have commenced logging operations. They will operate a camp at Conover, where they have 2,000,000 feet of logs which will be put in—Mississippi Valley Lumberman.

There is no discounting the solid success of "What Happened to Jones," George H. Broadhurst's clever farce. It is a well written and cleverly constructed play, and wherever given it is greeted with rapturous applause and which are secured in an honest manner. At the Grand opera house served.

A supper will be given at the parochial school on the eve of Wednesday, December 12. The men will do all the work. The proceeds will go toward helping defray the expenses of furnishing the sisters' quarters in the new building. The bill of fare will be the same as at the last supper, except that John Bidler insists that wieners and sauerkraut be served.

Everybody who enjoys seeing the old-time life clearly depicted and its deeper passions carefully portrayed, in short, all who enjoy a thoroughly good play—and who does not—will be glad to learn that Blue Jeans, Joseph Arthur's world famous comedy drama of rural Indiana life, will be at the Grand opera house on Friday, Dec. 11th. Its first production in New York marked an epoch in the American stage, and to this day, the dramatists and stage mechanics have not between them, evolved no piece of realism to equal its famous saw mill scene. So carefully was this worked out that it leaves no sign of staginess or feeble imitation, but looks and is the real thing. True to life in every detail. The play centers, taking throughout, the company a good one and the scenic effects elaborate.

DOINGS IN THE COUNTY

The dance given by the Modern Woodmen on Thanksgiving eve, was a decided success, both socially and financially. A large crowd was present and every one appeared to have a jolly time. Among those from out of town who attended were Mrs. Will Gamble, of Edgar, the Misses Muir and Newland, of Woodruff, Kemp, of Rhinelander, and Hardy, of Minocqua; Messrs. W. A. Range, of Minocqua, and Remond, of Woodruff.

The Royal Neighbors of Minocqua, gave a dancing party on Thanksgiving evening, and the following Arthur Vitae people graced the affair: Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Bissell, Misses Funk, Coffman, and Kemp of Rhinelander; Messrs. Peterson, McBurney, Olson, Stiles, LaBrecche and Rea.

"Joey" wanted to come over to the Woodman dance so badly, but "Joey's" mamma said he might catch the small pox, so he, like a dutiful little boy, stayed at home.

Miss Susie Hammond spent several days of the past week in Merrill. Her brother Ray has been in Ripon during her absence, with Miss Maude Hammond.

Mrs. Dell Murray, who has been seriously ill for the past couple of weeks, is no better, and no hopes of her recovery are entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Gamble returned Friday to their home in Edgar, after a short visit at the home of W. H. Bissell.

Mrs. C. W. Bowen, of Grand Rapids, is in town, called here by the illness of her sister, Mrs. Dell Murray.

Miss Mollie Murray returned Sunday from Wausau, where she had been to spend Thanksgiving.

Miss Mary Lemke went down to Wausau Thursday afternoon for a visit with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Bissell entertained Miss Kemp, of Rhinelander, during the week.

Theodore Stinson has been visiting his brother John for the past week. Miss Jessie Coffman spent a couple of days in Star Lake this week.

Born, Sunday Nov. 25th to Mr. and Mrs. Shipman, a boy.

A. W. Warner, of Merrill, spent Sunday in town.

Miss Coffman, of Minocqua, visited here Friday.

The freight, on the Brown-Robbins R. R. last Saturday removed the boxes which had been side-tracked here for a day or two waiting for the loggers to remove their supplies.

Miss Alice Walsh, who is teaching in the Polish settlement three miles north of here, returned Sunday after spending Thanksgiving in Rhinelander.

Mrs. Sarah Jackson, of Lac du Flambeau, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Big John at the Indian village on Sugar Camp lake.

Anderson Brown passed through here last Wednesday on his way to Sand Lake, where he has a crew of men logging.

Messrs. Lindstrand and Extrum have finished their work of clearing for the Northwestern Land and Sheep Co.

Messrs. Fred and Eddie Hunter returned to school Monday after a several illness.

School opened Monday after a short vacation with an attendance of sixteen.

P. N. Hunter gave a sleigh ride last Sunday for the young ladies of Robbins.

The freight south last Wednesday, took two cars of wool to Rhinelander.

D. A. Kitto expects to get out two thousand and cedar poles this winter.

M. Hunter is now comfortably situated in his new house.

F. R. Tripp has a force of Indians at work cutting wood.

Great demand for caramels at Mr. Tripp's store.

Frank Anderson spent Thanksgiving day at his home in Merrill.

Edwin Sipes and James O'Melia, students at the Northern Wisconsin academy, came home for Thanksgiving.

Besides the Sunday preaching services at the church every two weeks, meetings will be held every Thursday night.

Wanted.

Cedar posts and poles, all sizes and lengths. For prices offered and further information, inquire of D. F. Becker at office of Brown-Robbins Lbr. Co.

Bids Wanted.

The county board of Oneida county will accept bids, up to December 20th 1901 for furnishing one hundred and seventy-five cords of four foot body wood, half to be yellow birch and half hard maple. Delivery to be made on or before February 1, 1902. The committee reserves the right to reject any or all bids. B. MOHAN, Chairman
